The Conspiracy Tr al-Argument of steverdy Johnson.

WASHINGTON, June 19.-Mr. Clampitt read the argument addressed to the President and gentlemen of the Court, signed by the Hon Reverdy Johnson, and concurred in by Mr. Fread A. Aiken and Mr John M Clampitt, associate counsel for Mrs. Mary E. Surratt. It commences by asking if the Commission has jurisdiction in the case before it, and calling at tention to the great importance of the question refers to the duty of the Commission to consider it, and declares if the Commission is unauthorized, the act establishing it is an usurpation on the part of the Executive.

It then proceeds to say that the Constitution defines the powers and duties of the Executive. and provides punishment for his violation of them; therefore he possesses no powers beyond what the Constitution confers, and this act, beyoud that authority, can furnish no defense tribunal like this has no jurisdiction over them. other than military offenses, is believed to be evident. That offenses defined and punished by the civil law, and whose trial is provided by the diction, is of course true. A military, as disthe punishment the case is unprovided for, and as far as the military power is concerned every species of offense that the United punish, in all such cases the civil courts are Railroad Accident-Foombe Escaped clothed with every necessary jurisdiction. They determined, there and judicial, but against congressional abuse. with this view they adopted the fifth constitutional amendment, which declares that no person shall be held to answer for capital or other infamous crimes unless on a presentment or in dictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising ie the land or naval force, or in the militis when active service in time of war or public danger. This view is elaborated by reference to the highest legal authority, and the constitutional questions are discussed at length. The Sixth Amendment, which our fathers lought so vital to individual liberty, when as sailed by the Government, prosecution claims but new guarantee. In the course of his argument, Mr Johnson said he had brought forward this question of jurisdiction only because he conscientiously believed it to be his duty. He did not seek for immunity to any one engaged in the horrid crimes of the 14 h of April. Over them the Civil Courts of this District had ample jurisdiction, and will faithfully exercise it if the cases are remanded to them.
